A Business for Men of Skill and Ambition

Hundreds of young men have a natural talent for careers as watchmakers, but do not know it. They have been schooled in mathematics, they like to work with small tools—yet fail to make the most of their opportunities in a trade in which a real need for mechanical skill exists.

With an aptitude for fine mechanics, and with a determination to master the art, ambitious young men can qualify as Engravers and Watchmakers under Elgin instructors.

Learn the Science of Watchmaking & Engraving

The watchmaker's services are always in demand. He draws the best of skilled craftsman's wages. He locates where he pleases. When he wants a business of his own, he starts it, and usually succeeds.

Every young man must decide upon a future vocation, for he must remain in the "job hunting" class.
 Courses for ambitious young men—determined to possess a good trade, are now being taught to prepare for their life's work at the Elgin Watchmakers College.

What others are doing you can do. For this reason you will surely welcome the book "Watchmaking as a Vocation," which gives you complete details of study courses and tuition charges. This book will be mailed free upon request. Address Dept. N 20

BLAINE COMMUTES CAR THIEF'S TERM

John F. Hunter Eligible to Parole After Serving 3 Out of 8 Years.

Sentenced in the Deloit municipal court to eight years in state prison for larceny, involving the theft of automobiles, John F. Hunter, former manager of Deloit, has received commutation of his sentence to six years, making him eligible to parole in July, after serving three years.

On at least two previous occasions Governor Blaine denied Hunter a pardon.

Hunter was arrested at Deloit in 1921 by police in a drive against automobile thefts and he pleaded guilty July 28, 1921 to theft of three automobiles. He was given four years on the first of three counts for larceny, and two each on the others.

No Unlawful Recommendation. Commenting upon the parole, Judge John Clark said Tuesday that neither he nor District Attorney S. G. Dunwiddie had made any recommendation. Hunter is about 40 years old.

After his sentence was noticed quite a lot of car thefts in Deloit," was Judge Clark's only comment.

One Absolute Pardon. Acting upon 20 pardon applications, Governor Blaine announced Monday that he had granted one absolute pardon, commuted sentences of six inmates of the state prison, given seven conditional pardons and made three others eligible to parole.

The executive ordered three others transferred to the state penitentiary. Nine of those given pardons or upon which favorable action was taken were former service men whose names were investigated in a survey by Dr. W. P. Lorenz and Dr. W. S. Middleton of service men in state penal institutions.

Raymond Thomas, alias Fred Johnson, sentenced Sept. 27, 1919, in La Crosse county to 10 years for assault with intent to rob was the recipient of the only absolute pardon granted this time by the governor.

A. building here this fall, the report of the commission of "Types of Buildings and Equipment for the Small City" will contain some suggestions which will be reported here. Among other subjects will be business administration, financing, cooperation with the Y. W. C. A. and other women's organizations, the field of work, the place of the Y. M. C. ## Truck Rams Car into Phone Pole; No One Injured

Rammed broadside by a heavy motor truck and driven into a telephone pole with a resounding crash, a light touring car owned and driven by Dr. J. N. Wells, Orfordville, was wrecked in Janesville on Monday afternoon but the three occupants miraculously escaped unhurt. The accident, one of the worst reported in this city in several days, occurred at the corner of Center and Western avenues shortly before 2 p. m.

The truck, driven by Oscar Rue, Stoughton, was only slightly damaged.

Dr. Wells was driving into Janesville from Orfordville on old Highway 20 and is reported to have made the arterial stop on Western avenue before entering on Center avenue. The truck was traveling down Center avenue hill out its way to Deloit and both turned each seeking to avoid a crash. As it happened each turned in the same direction and the touring car was struck amidships driving it into a telephone pole at the south-east corner of the intersection. The sides were caved in, glass in the windshield was broken and the right front wheel was splintered into pieces.

One Lone Inez Worth a Hundred of the Chinless.

The chinless organizations of faddist pacifists had a shock at a meeting of the Garrett Biblical Institute. Resolutions were being presented and afterward passed by 124 votes to 17 to make an Armenia and a yellow dog of the United States. Inez Traxler was not at all dismayed at the largeness of the majority. She refused to pledge opposition to war "regardless of conditions."

It may be an amazing thing that the vote was not reversed but we have a peculiar condition of mind here in the United States on the peace and war question among some of our people. It has a super-religious side bordering on zealotry and fanaticism—the fanaticism of fatalism. When the Children of Israel waxed rich and were having a bully time with the fleashpots of Palestine, they were easily enslaved. All the prayers of the prophets did not save them. When Rome grew rich and lazy and indifferent, Alaric and Attila and their hordes of barbarians swept ancient Rome and the Rome of the early centuries of the Christian era from the earth as a power and barbarism reigned for a thousand years.

Buried are the treasures of Egypt and all the manuscripts that would have told us of the early history of Christ and his followers, were burned up in the ashes of libraries by pagan and barbaric hordes, because wealth and retreating china became popular, and they were too proud to fight.

We do not suppose that Inez Traxler, the Garrett student, wants any more than the 124 who voted for a non-defense program based on the exaltation of the barefooted and G-stringed Gandhi. We want world peace but we are not going to get it by lying down like a whipped yellow cur at the feet of some one who is still shaking hands with the god Mars. There are a number of forces at work in this country which we need to fight and one of the worst is the underground borer who are endeavoring to destroy this government by stirring the women to combat war with non-defense propaganda. When it comes to keeping off the dogs it is far better to be a goat with horns, than a sheep.

We cannot get away from the fact that we made the homes of the people who are in this present opposition to war "no matter what the circumstances," with guns and ammunition and the nerve to handle both. Most of the Garrett students came from the middle west and here, had their own policy being carried out, the land from Atlantic to Pacific would have been a howling wilderness filled with savages. Instead of being students they would have been back in Europe carrying garbage from some feudal castle and not living in free America. We fought for the very freedom of expression the Garrett students enjoy. We used muskets and cannon and buried our sacrifices of soldiers and civilians to secure the land on which the Garrett Institute is located. If they think it was unlawfully obtained they might give it back to the descendants of the Potawatamies who massacred the whites at Fort Dearborn.

There were brave women in those days—women who took their places at the port holes and fired the rifles fallen from the hands of dying husband and father—the Inez Traxlers of that time. There were also skulking cowards with trembling fingers and shattered nerves, who did not want to fight. They were the ones dragged out and given short shrift. Can you imagine Molly Stark voting against war "regardless of any conditions?"

War is not going to be stopped that way. It will come through a long process of higher spiritual knowledge and a destruction of jealousy and greed and ambition to rule, and world covetousness. And while doing that we shall prefer to be like the missionaries of the early days—know where "is my refuge and my defense" in a military post guarded with guns. Those pioneers of the Word of God were familiar with the teachings of Jesus Christ but they also knew the mechanism of a musket.

Talking about the dogs of war, the tourist can never escape the pursuit of the hot dog.

Call for Troops at Once!

It seems we are in for another international complication. And this time it is so serious that we should man our fifth rate fleet and get out the useless guns.

Doug and Mary on their tour of Europe had Denmark on their list of stopping places. Their press agent asked a Danish newspaper to arrange a presentation to the king and the newspaper in turn went to the court chamberlain. What he said is not reported but it was to ask who in whole is Doug and Mary. Great astonishment was registered but he was finally told. This was insult number one. Number two came when the chamberlain said a visit would have to be arranged through the American minister. See. Hughes will have to write a letter or we shall perhaps be obliged to place an embargo on Danish butter, go to war, or do something else equally as threatening.

Had Doug and Mary been plain war profiteers or members of the United States senate it would not be so bad but as it is we feel hurt right in the middle of our moving picture.

SAVING THE SALMON

By FREDERICK J. HASKIN.

Washington.—A drama of the moving picture type is being enacted in congress. Instead of single heroine or hero in peril, this drama involves millions of fish, and the rescuers are the congressmen. The plot, as Shakespeare might have said, is such stuff as eight reels are made of.

For some years, the salmon of Alaska have been in serious danger of becoming extinct. Salmon, once plentiful in the United States, have practically disappeared from Atlantic waters, and also from the bays and rivers of the Pacific coast. Millions of these fish are still taken each year by Alaskan cannerymen, but the quantity of the catch is no sign that the Alaskan supply is unlimited. On the contrary the species with which the fish have been consumed has been a warning as to the ultimate fate of the salmon in America—unless something could be done. The chances were that our grandchildren would class the salmon with buffalo steak, wild turkey, and other historic delicacies of the western world. Regulations out down the salmon pack somewhat, but the fish continued to decrease.

At last, however, the country is aroused to the danger of this industry which is a mainstay of Alaskan prosperity, and which furnishes $30,000,000 worth of food each year. Congress has rushed, with dignity, of course—to the rescue, in the nick of time. A bill designed to preserve the Alaskan salmon for posterity has passed the house by a large majority, and the measure has been favorably reported by the senate by a senate committee. President Coolidge and Secretary of Commerce Hoover have urged congress to take action, as the situation can not be met by existing laws.

The salmon requires unusual kinds of protection because it is one of the most peculiar of fish. It possesses a homing instinct that is more remarkable than that displayed by the homing pigeon. Tiny salmon swim out of the streams and rivers and are carried into great rivers or out to the ocean. For several days they live in the deep waters. Then the time comes for the adult fish to spawn, and for this purpose the salmon, wherever it may be, returns to the shallow stream from whence it originally came. The salmon leaves only one brood of descendants. When the one nest of eggs is deposited the old fish die.

Fish culturists have long wondered where the salmon stray during their years of wandering, and also how the old fish find their way home. The homing power of the salmon has never been explained, but by a tagging system the careers of some salmon have been followed.

One thousand salmon were tagged in 1922 in one experiment. The numbered aluminum tags were attached to the tails of the young fish. Some went into the world to be swallowed by large fish. Some tagged fish were undoubtedly caught, and the tags overlooked. Rewards were offered for reporting tags in some sections, but not in others. But in time 18 per cent, 180 fish, were reported recaptured either in the streams from which they came or elsewhere.

The roving tendencies of some salmon were shown by the reports. Last October, the Bureau of Fisheries received a letter from Vladivostok. The letter said that a salmon marked "U. S. B. F. No. 10358" was caught on the eastern shore of Kamchatka. This fish was one of the 10,000 tagged by the bureau last year. It had traveled to the Siberian coast from southern Alaska.

It is a matter of great importance to the government to learn what the routes of the salmon are apt to be. The salmon returning to their spawning grounds pass in schools through narrow head waters and it is at such points that they have been most attacked.

A law passed in 1906 gave the Secretary of Commerce authority to prohibit the taking of salmon in an Alaskan stream or within 500 yards of the mouth of a stream, under certain conditions. The proposed legislation would extend the government's protection to all Alaskan waters and out to the three mile limit. Acting on the authority thus given him, the Secretary of Commerce can establish detailed regulations for fishing in the different rivers and bays. If large numbers of fish travel in certain routes and if the returning fish are being caught too rapidly at certain points rules will be needed to fit those localities.

Once the salmon from a particular stream are destroyed altogether, there will be no more fish laying eggs in that stream, because other salmon will return only to their own home waters. The stream can be artificially restocked, but the government is anxious to avoid this tedious and uncertain process.

The pending legislation prohibits the taking of more than one-half of the salmon. It is believed that this would insure sufficient reproduction. While it may seem impossible that the government can estimate whether one salmon goes free for every salmon that is caught, Henry O'Malley, commissioner of the Bureau of Fisheries, explains that such estimates can be made for different localities with reasonable exactness.

The Bureau has already counted the salmon that swim up two Alaskan rivers. A wolf built across the river prevents the fish from passing except through a narrow channel. A man with a counting arrangement is stationed at this point to count the fish as they go by. As many as 63,000 fish have been counted by one of these men in a single day. The escapement for a year was 1,350,000 in one river. The fish are counted as they return to the home stream. The tiny fish swimming out to sea could not be satisfactorily counted.

The salmon protection bill would make it unlawful to take salmon during 36 hours of each week. It does away with the policy of granting fishing permits to a limited number of persons in certain areas, and it states specifically that no citizen shall be denied the right to take fish in waters where fishing is permitted. There has been a good deal of controversy as to rights and privileges of salmon cannerymen. Different methods of trapping and netting have been criticized by rival factions. There has been considerable objection to the permit system, which was established on two reservations as a temporary measure in order to limit the number of operators and to limit their catch.

In its report on the bill, the senate committee said: "This act is not perfect. It does not wholly satisfy anybody. We are sure, however, that it is a very substantial move in the right direction. If it can be passed and ample provision made to carry it out, the Alaska fisheries will be permanently maintained."

The government's attempt during the past few years to close the catch in reservation areas succeeded to some extent locally. In those areas the pack of salmon for 1923 was about 22 per cent less than the pack of 1922. But in unregulated areas the 1923 pack exceeded that of 1922 by 47 per cent. Commissioner O'Malley stated in this connection, "No further argument would seem necessary as to the need for some form of control."

To have said that he had never heard of La Follette. He was sent back to the benches. Perhaps the poor man had confined his reading to the constitution of the United States. We'll bet Gov. Blaine had a real laugh over this Barron county episode.

Nicholas Murray Butler ought to be for a Beveridge for president.

An exhibit of the political junk heap is made in Kansas City where even present and former dry agents are indicted for graft.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

THE LESSONS.
 "Mother," I said, "it's a long, long lane, this lane of the years we fire. And we have traveled it day by day through its laughter and hurt and care. And what shall we teach of the things we've learned to the children who follow on? And what shall we give them to keep them safe in the days when we shall be gone?"

Then we talked it over—life's fame and wealth and cunning and strength and skill, And the cheers of men for a noble deed, and the thing that is called a thrill. And the tones of the voice, and the paths deep when pleasures are running strong. When it seems so hard to do the right, and so easy to do the wrong.

And the mother said: "Let us keep them close, yes, close to us day by day. Let us teach them never to lie for gain, let the prize be what it may; Let us teach them to value this home we keep and never to stoop to shame; Let us teach them that honor's greater thing than fortune or skill or fame."

"Let us teach them to follow the friendly ways, to serve, to be fair and kind. To reap life's pleasures whenever they grow, but to leave no stain to be bettered. Let us give them a faith to lean upon when the shadows of sorrow fall, And we need not fear what the future holds, they shall safely brave it all."

HOROSCOPE

WEDNESDAY, MAY 21, 1924.

Venus in Libra aspect dominates this day, according to astrology. Mercury is friendly. During this way it is wise to be cautious in dealing with women in the business world, since the emotions may be easily involved where the intellect should rule.

All the signs indicate a continuation of sentimentality and a lack of moral responsibility in the association of men and women.

The coming summer is likely to be marked by even more foolish or at least more unwise romance than in the past.

Women should be extremely cautious in all that they do while this configuration prevails, for they may make many serious mistakes when Venus frolics on them.

The political outlook for women is not at all satisfactory, for it seems to denote that men will give them but half-hearted support or confidence.

This should be a lucky rule for signing leases or contracts, unless they have to do with the theater.

Newspapers will profit much and they will make many improvements in their methods of management. If the seers are to be believed.

Editors again come under a planetary direction giving them added power and new honors.

The Pope should safeguard his health, astrologers warn, for he will have a period of extreme activity and anxiety.

Discussions regarding religion will be numerous during the summer and a return of old time bigotry and prejudice has been prophesied by astrologers.

Calumnies are to overtake a European ruler who has not been conspicuous in world affairs, it is forecast.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the alacrity of a busy year in which it is well to be very conservative in all business ventures.

Children born on this day will probably be quick and energetic, but rather unlucky in small matters. These subjects of Gemini are generally very affectionate and sympathetic. Many authors are born under this sign.

No one, fishing for perch, ever caught tuberculosis.

There is always danger when old boilers carry high pressures.

Consulting one's physician, when well, is less expensive than when sick.

Babies, under eighteen months of age, should avoid the dangers of travel during the hot months.

Health hint: Don't repeat scandal to a stranger; he might be her brother.

A LITTLE SALVE

This is No. 22 of a series of chats we're broadcasting from this station Tuesday and Friday on the medium of the cupboards. Quite a lot of our readers are cutting out and making a little handbook to keep as a key to the medicine cupboard. Every little while—about every four weeks—I should send you a copy of a chat or two missing from her scrapbook and writes in to me to kindly send the book copy. This is unfortunately for I have no back copies available, and all I can do is suggest that issues of the paper for the dates needed may be still obtainable at the office.

Today we will take up petroleum and old oil do oilment. Petroleum is the official name for ordinary petroleum jelly. That's soft petroleum. There is a hard petroleum and a liquid petroleum—the latter is commonly known as paraffin oil or purified mineral oil or American or Russian oil. Petroleum is a neutral oilment base, softening, soothing, protective, harmless internally or externally, and all I can do is suggest that issues of the paper for the dates needed may be still obtainable at the office.

Did you know? A fine oil around the eye for cleaning, and for removing irritations, itching, smarting, and inflammations which call for a local medication. Here is the recipe for it, but do not guarantee that the recipe as printed is correct. There are a thousand things that can happen to a recipe after I have handed it over to the tender mercies of the printer.

Zinc oxide ..... 30 grains
 Mercuric acid ..... 20 grains
 Benzoin ..... 10 grains
 Oil of rosemary ..... 5 drops
 Lard ..... 6 drams

Petroleum, enough to make one ounce.
 This salve should be put in collapsible tubes. Of course it doesn't heal anything, but it relieves itching and does not give great satisfaction as an all around soothing salve and if my expert opinion means anything, I can tell you old doc will go as far as to say that it will keep you out of mischief while the healing is going on and incidentally it may save you some money if you are in the habit of "try-ing" salves.

The next ointment in the medicine cupboard is liniment. We have already described the advantages of homemade camphorated oil as a liniment. In addition it will have a tube of what is generally known as

TODAY'S MARKET

GRAIN

Chicago Review.
 Chicago—Although weakness of New York stocks had a slightly depressing effect on wheat prices at the opening today, the wheat market soon scored a decided upturn. Relying on the part of a large elevator interest was more or less responsible for the lift in values. Corn strength and the fact that the McNary-Hauck bill was expected to be taken up at Washington today had a further bullish influence. Opening prices, which varied from unchanged futures to 1c lower, with July 1924 at 1.06 1/2 and September 1.07 1/2, were followed by material gains all around.

Subsequently, strength in Winnipeg, where exporters were purchasing, led to increased buying here, and foreign prices to new high levels for the day, but the market eased back at the close. The close was unsettled, 1/2c net higher, July 1.06 1/2 and September 1.07 1/2.

Corn developed fresh strength as a result of unseasonably cold weather in the north and west, and May shorts continued to be active. Bids, after opening at 1/2c decline, advanced to 1 1/2c, and 1/2c net higher, July 1.06 1/2 and September 1.07 1/2.

Later the market became easier, it being announced that vessels had been chartered to bring foreign bushels of corn from Duluth to Chicago. The decline was limited at 1/2c net, closing to 1 1/2c net.

Oats were firmer in sympathy with corn, and prices unchanged to 1/2c higher, July 44 1/2 and September 45 1/2. The close was unsettled, 1/2c net higher, July 44 1/2 and September 45 1/2.

PHONE FIGHT ENDS IN SETTLEMENT

Long Standing Action Is Closed for Time Being—$500 Paid.

Just as trial was to proceed before Judge George Grimm in the Rock county circuit court Monday, attorneys representing the two sides settled for the present the long standing suit of the Rock County Telephone company against the Rock County Farmers Telephone company, by a stipulation entered into in open court.

By the agreement, the defendant will pay the plaintiff company $500 as rental for a switchboard, and dismisses its counterclaim for the present, with a veto, mostly to bringing them before the Wisconsin railroad commission for decision. The claims are for toll charges, percentage, and fees for switchboard toll charges and a charge for local calls starting with the plaintiff company's lines and completed over the defendant's lines.

Al. P. Richardson appeared for the plaintiff and A. E. Matheson for the defendant.

Morstedt Annulment Granted
Judge Grimm had busy afternoon in court hearing a motion for a change of venue, an annulment, and several mortgage foreclosure actions.

Marguerite Morstedt, Janesville, was granted an annulment of her marriage at Crown Point, Ind., Mar. 16, 1916, to Fred J. Morstedt, upon testimony that it was entered into a month after she divorced George Jimmie. The plaintiff was given the right to resume her maiden name of Marguerite Hoehner. Otto A. Oestrich, Janesville, appeared for the plaintiff and Harry Fox acted as special divorce counsel.

The motion for a change of venue from the Rock to the Milwaukee circuit court in the $3,500 suit, branch of contract of the Rock County Sugar company against Donahue Stratton company, Milwaukee, was taken under advisement by Judge Grimm after hearing arguments. Bernard V. Brady, Milwaukee, appeared for the defendants and J. A. Avery for the plaintiff.

A change of place in the trial court is sought by the defendants for convenience of witnesses and is opposed by the plaintiff. The suit grew out of the refusal of the Milwaukee concern to accept 14 carloads of beet pulp delivered to them on contract by the Janesville concern.

Four Foreclosures Ordered
Mortgage foreclosures ordered by Judge Grimm were as follows:

Kate C. Devoe, Beloit, against Anna H. Pluecker, on unpaid property in the city of Beloit; Robert J. Cunningham was counsel for the plaintiff.

Fred H. Duerst, foreclosing on land contract entered into with Jordan B. Larson, defendant, for farm near Evansville.

William A. Dodd, Milton, against George P. Reddy, Whitewater, foreclosing on a farm in town of Milton, not deemed sufficient security for note of $12,500, made June 19, 1917.

George C. Sutherland, Janesville, was plaintiff's counsel.

William H. Matheson, through his attorney Paul N. Grubb, Janesville, foreclosing on farm in town of Porter, in which $6,200 was involved, Otto Manthel is the defendant.

CATHOLIC EDUCATION MEET AT GREEN BAY

Milwaukee — Catholic educational men and women from all parts of the United States were here June 22-24 for the 21st annual convention of the Catholic Educational association. Features of the convention will be a pontifical high mass celebrated on the morning of June 24 by Archbishop S. Messmer, Milwaukee, and an address by the Right Reverend Thomas J. Shahan, president of the Catholic University of America, Washington, D. C., who will preside at the meetings.

MACHINERY IS SET IN MOTION TO PUT BONUS INTO EFFECT

The amount of adjusted service compensation to which they would be entitled.

Adjusted service compensation is figured on the basis of $1 a day for overseas service and $1.25 a day for overseas service. The first 60 days cannot be counted. Also a maximum of 500 days would be allowed.

All veterans up to and including the rank of captain in the army and marine corps and lieutenant in the navy are eligible for the bonus.

Women who served as yeomen in the navy and marine corps also were included in the bill as eligible to receive its benefits.

This stipulates that no one shall be entitled to its benefits for service as a civilian officer or for membership in the reserve officers' training corps or the student army training corps.

It is estimated that the average insurance policy would be valued at $902, while the maximum value of the policies would be about $1,900 for overseas service and $1,500 for home service.

Show Amount Due

The value of the policy would be the equivalent amount which the adjusted service credit plus 25 per cent. would purchase at regular insurance prices based on 4 per cent. interest compounded annually. To determine the latter computation a table of factors has been compiled by experts.

Multiplication of the proper factor by the amount of adjusted service compensation due the veteran, plus 25 per cent. would give the face value of the insurance certificate. Each certificate, of course, would vary according to the length of service of the veteran and his age at the date of issuance of the policy. The policies would be dated Jan. 1.

Table of Factors

made at any time before Jan. 1, 1928, but the cash payments will not be distributed until after next March 1.

May 1928

Loans may be made on the polesles up to 90 per cent of their current face value any time after two years from date of issuance. Thus, on a $1,000 policy at the end of two years a loan of $900 may be made. On this same policy at the end of fifteen years a loan of $831.25 would be possible. The loans may be made at any national or state bank.

Service between April 5, 1917, and July 1, 1918, may be counted in computing the insured's credit, although enlistment must have been made before Nov. 11, 1918.

Application for the bonus may be made at any time before Jan. 1, 1928, but the cash payments will not be distributed until after next March 1.

May Borrow After 2 Years

Loans may be made on the policies up to 90 per cent. of their current face value any time after two years from the date of issuance. Thus, on a $1,000 policy at the end of two years a loan of $87.35 could be made. On this same policy at the end of nine years a loan of $81.23 would be possible. The loans may be made at any national or state bank.

Service between April 5, 1917, and July 1, 1918, may be counted in computing the adjusted service credit, although enlistment must have been made before Nov. 11, 1918.

The Chrysler Six

Engineering That Gives Results Previously Unknown.

In distinctive appearance, in performance ability, in economy of operation, in fine standards of manufacture, in roadability, in driving convenience; in supreme quality, motor car experts give the Chrysler Six a place apart.

It has a high-gear speed range from 2 to over 70 miles an hour, combined with gasoline economy safely over 20 miles per gallon.

A 7-bearing crankshaft heavy enough for a two-ton car, fully machined and perfectly balanced, combines with scientifically designed and balanced reciprocating parts to produce vibrationless power at all speeds. The Chrysler Six has, literally, no "period."

The Good Maxwell

The way the new series of the Good Maxwell rides, makes its splendid performance all the more satisfying. It provides a degree of road comfort that is entirely unusual in a car of its weight and size.

May we show you?

The New Star Car

The New Star Car is as great an advance in the progress of motor transportation as the original Star Car which it succeeds.

You find in the new Star Car, therefore, not merely a variation of the original Star which was the lowest-priced standard automobile in the world—but a new creation which makes for itself a new place in the progress of motor transportation—a car selling as low as any standard make which gives more value than any other at its price—a car selling well under a thousand dollars, as perfect in proportion and as well appointed as cars selling well over a thousand dollars.
